Private International Law Profile

Dominic has a broad based practice in commercial law and advises on both contentious and transactional matters. He is regularly instructed by the legal departments of major corporates and by accountancy firms to advise on specific issues arising on corporate and other transactions. He has significant experience in resolving claims arising out of complex contractual documentation. Dominic also advises on professional negligence claims, in particular those relating to company or financial matters. Dominic was previously an equity partner at a leading national law firm where he was both a litigation and corporate partner.
